THE WORKING OF A TRUST

Barytes Mine Closed for the Want of a Market

Market.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

MORRISVILLE, VA. September 9.—
The people of this section have just received an object lesson in the practical workings of a trust that greatly assists in preparing a soil adapted to the growth of socialistic ideas. For haif a dozen years a local company has been operating a barytes mine between this place and more hauling for those owning teams.

The quality of the barytes taken out at this mine is said to be unsurpassed anywhere.

With seven car-loads at the mouth of the mine ready to ship; the company could and ready to ship; the company could not sell a car-load shipped to Lynchburg as usual, and all operations here were at once suspended. The factories that prepare the barytes for market, and most of the mines were recently swallowed up by a trust, and as this company here is not a partner its output was refused it is said by the factories, which are conerolled by the trust.

This same company is now turning its attention to the development of some very rich deposits of copper adjacent to the barytes. Years ago, the copper interests here were very flourishing, but water flooded the mines. Those new interested hops by the use of more modern appliances to overcome this obstacle and once more uncover the copper veins which are also said to be wery rich in sliver.

WARRENTON, VA., Sept. 9.—Circuit Court was in session here to-day, with Judge C. E. Nichol presiding. The principal case on the docket was that of Trimmer vs. Breeden for damages in a suit instituted after the plainting arrest some months geo by Joseph Breeden on the charge of burglary. The trial excited public interest generally, the court-room being filled most of the time.
The jury found for the defendant.
